

Mary Martha Myette takes her inspiration from the likes of Mahatma Gandhi and Mother Theresa, and is using her inspiration to inspire others. She is deeply committed to those that don't have a voice, and to the idea that each of us can make an impact in the world.*

Originally from Fort Smith Arkansas, and a graduate of the University of Arkansas, she has lived and worked in Atlanta since 1993. She resides in Morningside with Mark, her husband of 25 years, and their two adopted children from Russia, Andre and Louisa. The family share their home with three shelter dogs and a cat.

Mary Martha is an active member of the global mission council of First Presbyterian Church-ATL, as well as the refugee resettlement efforts there.
