

New American Pathways

HELPING REFUGEES AND GEORGIA THRIVE

We help refugees from the moment of their arrival through their journey to citizenship with proven pathways to self-sufficiency and success.

New American Pathways is a locally governed nonprofit with a budget of $5 million. With a staff of more than 60 professionals and an AmeriCorps team of 15 members, we can serve 3,500 refugees and other immigrants each year, helping them realize their full potential and dreams as they build new lives in Georgia.

A 2014 MERGER OF RRISA AND RFS

We help ensure that new Americans contribute their special skills and talents to strengthen the American workforce and help Georgia thrive.

New American Pathways offers specially designed programs that start with resettlement services. Throughout the process, we keep a strong focus on jobs, education, cultural integration, individual and female empowerment and building strong families.

Our Service Priorities

Create economic opportunity and cultivate refugee workforce development.

Break down barriers to self-sufficiency by providing coaching and case management support to refugee women and families.

Provide comprehensive education support for students and families, starting with early childhood education through high school graduation.

Promote community engagement and citizenship, and highlight the contributions of newcomers.
